Website Review & Improvement Proposal
Contemporary Group Limited

When I first explored the website, my goal was simple: to quickly understand what the company does, how it operates, and how easily a potential client could engage with it. While the site presents a solid visual foundation, I noticed several areas where clarity, structure, and overall user experience could be improved to better reflect the company's capabilities.

1. Structure & Navigation

One of the first challenges I encountered was the absence of a dedicated services page. Clicking "View Our Services" redirects to the About page, which creates confusion. If I were restructuring this, I would introduce a clearly defined Services section, breaking down offerings into specific categories and linking them to real project examples. This would significantly improve user understanding and engagement.

2. Hero Section & First Impression

The hero section is visually strong but lacks contextual storytelling. The current message is generic and does not differentiate the brand. I would transform the carousel into a project-driven experience, where each slide highlights a real project with details such as location, client, and completion year. This would immediately build credibility.

3. User Flow & Contact Experience

The navigation does not guide the user through a clear journey. Additionally, the Contact page lacks a strong conversion structure. I would redesign it to include a proper contact form, clear calls to action, and accessible communication channels, making it easier for potential clients to initiate engagement.

4. Visual Design & UI Consistency

The website feels slightly outdated in terms of layout and design consistency. Issues such as uneven spacing, inconsistent typography, and outdated icons reduce the perceived quality of the brand. I would implement a modern design system with consistent spacing, standardized image ratios, and improved visual hierarchy.

5. Projects Presentation

The projects section is one of the company's strongest assets but is currently underutilized. Instead of simple image displays, I would present projects as structured case studies, including context, challenges, and outcomes. This approach builds trust and demonstrates expertise.

6. SEO & Discoverability

The website currently lacks strong search engine visibility. If a user searches for related services, the company does not appear prominently. I would address this by creating dedicated service pages, optimizing keywords, and structuring content to improve search rankings and organic traffic.

Conclusion

Overall, the website has a solid foundation but requires strategic improvements to function as an effective business tool. My approach would focus on restructuring the user experience, improving content clarity, modernizing the design, and optimizing for performance and search visibility. The goal is to transform the website from a static presence into a platform that actively generates business opportunities.
